

To the Editors,

I am writing to submit our manuscript titled "A Comprehensive Approach to Ecosystem Services Management: From Alarm to Action" for consideration as a Methodological and Ideological Options article in Ecological Economics. This submission was presented at the 3rd International Conference on Environment and Sustainable Development.

The manuscript provides a timely, critical evaluation of basic theory towards discovery of a universal ecosystem performance observation. Specifically, this article argues that following the Hobbesian position allows one to estimate a "Commonwealth Cost of Carbon" using simple and elegant methods that do not require privileged information or expert computation. Not only could this novel insight yield benefits for worldwide civic participation, but also allows a history of carbon premiums to be estimated with much higher certainty than competing views. By bridging the gap between climate science and practical application, our piece offers actionable advances for a new trade association called the "Commonwealth of Peoples" and introduces a new "Commonwealth Service Rating" instrument to inspire a new marketplace in service performance.

We believe this manuscript is an ideal fit for Ecological Economics because it directly aligns with the journal's emphasis on integrating economics, societal dynamics and institutional structures. It specifically addresses your audiences interest in creating institutions that are well adapted to the limitations of our common global ecosystem.

By submitting this work, I confirm that:

- The manuscript is original and is not currently under consideration for publication elsewhere.
- All authors have approved the final manuscript and agree to its submission to Ecological Economics.
- There are no conflicts of interest to disclose.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration of our work.

Best wishes,

Dr Aidan T Parkinson CEng MCIBSE FCOP
